

Investigative journalist, Author & Expert for Economic crimes

Michael Verfürden

Michael Verfürden has been an editor in the Investigative Research department at Handelsblatt since 2020. He has reported on abuse of power in the financial sector, questionable real estate deals, and hackers targeting German companies. Michael Verfürden gained particular attention with his revelations about the scandal-ridden company Wirecard. He studied Germanistik and political science in Düsseldorf before completing the Georg von Holtzbrinck School for Business Journalists, where he now teaches courses on Open Source Intelligence (OSINT) and investigative research methods. At the end of 2022, Verfürden and his team gained access to 100 gigabytes of internal Tesla data, leaked by...
