

TV and event host, former pro athlete & sports scientist

Marissa Jöbstl

Marissa Jöbstl is a TV and event host, sports scientist, and former successful vaulter. She uniquely combines top athletic performance, media presence, and an authentic stage presence. Her motto: “If you’re passionate about something, you’re in your element!” Marissa Jöbstl first gained recognition in international equestrian sports. As a vaulter, she achieved great success early on and won the silver medal at the 2009 European Championships. Later, as a coach, she guided athletes on their path to the world’s elite. These experiences from elite sports continue to shape her work today: mental strength, precision, presence, and the ability to remain…
