

Prime Minister of Spain (2004 - 2011), Human Rights and Alliance of Civilisations advocate

José Luis Rodriguez Zapatero

José Luis Rodríguez Zapatero has been the only Prime Minister during the Spanish democracy who has gained the support of more than eleven million votes. In fact, he won the Spanish Presidential elections for two consecutive terms (2004 and 2008). The political measures applied by his government focused above all on the development of an extensive programme based on the egalitarian and universal extension of civil rights through pioneering laws. In the face of the struggle to achieve effective equality between women and men his act against Domestic Violence stands out; a comprehensive, new regulatory instrument, which has served as…
