Eckart von Hirschhausen

Eckart von Hirschhausen – The climate crisis is the greatest threat to global health in the 21st century. Health does not begin with a pill or an operation. Health begins with the air we breathe, the water we drink, the plants we eat, tolerable temperatures and peaceful coexistence. This is why doctors cannot remain silent when the climate crisis is the greatest threat to global health in the 21st century. Not even Eckart von Hirschhausen. His keynote speech will provide the latest scientific findings plus constructive and concrete ideas on how everyone can be part of the solution. Every lecture...
