Blind Climbing – Realising visions Motivational speeches with a difference by Andy Holzer A recent study by the Gallup Institute has shown that companies can no longer count on their employees' commitment. On the contrary, fewer and fewer employees seem to feel truly committed to their employer. The absence of a positive staff attitude can lead to a rapid decline in competitiveness and even the loss of large sums of money. So what can we do? Motivation is now a key factor in the growth of every company. But there are already enough conventional motivational seminars, courses and workshops. There...
