Andreas Arnemann

Andreas Arnemann – Who is at risk and how does (digital) personal protection work? The Snowden/NSA revelations have raised awareness of the digital threat – a threat that should by now be a key concern for executives and companies of all kinds. Through his career as a former head of a German specialist unit focusing on hostage situations, extortion and kidnapping, as a consultant in severe cases of violent crime, as a state youth coordinator, head of a national point of contact fighting child pornography, head of a specialised agency for telecommunications surveillance and as head of a specialised agency...
