Gilbert Gress

Gilbert Gress (1941) is a French soccer coach and former soccer player. The winger began his professional soccer career in his native city with Racing Strasbourg, where fans soon dubbed him the “Angel of Meinau” (l’Ange de la Meinau; Meinau is the club’s stadium). Shortly after his first game for Strasbourg’s league team (May 1960), it was relegated to the 2nd division, but returned to Division 1 immediately after a year, where Strasbourg played only in the middle of the table until Gress’ move to VfB Stuttgart (1966), but won the League Cup in 1964 and the French Club Cup...
