Edith Karl

She has been working for 35 years across 52 industries as a trainer, consultant and coach with mid-sized companies, managing directors at corporations and executive staff in the public sector.

Artificial intelligence and robotics are currently changing our professional and private lives in permanent and irrevocably ways. Demographic change adds the icing to the cake when it comes to this constant transformation. Now more than ever we can truly say that individuals are more important than ever before. Individuals are...
