

Expert for communication, meaningfulness, leadership & team development

Sacha Johann

Sacha Johann accompanies development and change processes of individuals, teams and organizations. He focuses on the question of meaning as a coach, team developer, expert for individual and collective meaningfulness at work, trainer and speaker. Because: Would you do something if it wasn't meaningful? Sacha Johann founded Premotion in 2002 after a career in the financial industry. The agency provides communication, event and training services to national and international companies. Since 2015, he has also worked with personalities and teams to help them develop and grow through his own label, Sacha Johann Life & Business Excellence. He brings his practical...
